Tiger Infrastructure Becomes Signatory of the United Nations Principles for Responsible Investment

NEW YORK AND LONDON, July 20, 2020 – Tiger Infrastructure Partners, a growth-oriented middle-market infrastructure private equity firm, has become a signatory of the United Nations-supported Principles for Responsible Investment (“PRI”). The Principles for Responsible Investment were developed by an international group of institutional investors reflecting the increasing relevance of environmental, social and corporate governance issues to investment practices. Tiger Infrastructure Partners’ decision to become a signatory of PRI underlines its commitment to applying the Principles for Responsible Investment through the investment lifecycle.

Tiger Infrastructure Partners’ CEO and Managing Director, Emil Henry, commented, “We believe that integrating environmental, social and governance (“ESG”) considerations into our business decisions is both a responsible approach to investing and a critical component to creating value for our investors. By formally embracing PRI as a signatory, we are reinforcing our commitment to key ESG principles and providing additional transparency for stakeholders to monitor the firm’s progress.”
